

Does This Sound Like Your Kid?

A quick checklist for parents wondering about AuDHD

FREE

This is not a diagnosis — it's a starting point. If several of these sound familiar, it might be worth talking to a professional who understands how autism and ADHD overlap. Check the ones you recognize.

ROUTINES & TRANSITIONS

- ☐ Needs the same routine but gets bored by it
- ☐ Struggles with transitions even when excited about what's next
- ☐ Can hyperfocus for hours, then can't start a 5-minute task
- ☐ Meltdowns happen most at transition points (leaving, arriving, switching activities)

SOCIAL & SENSORY

- ☐ Wants friends but doesn't know how to keep conversations going
- ☐ Certain textures, sounds, or lights are unbearable — but seeks other intense input
- ☐ Seems "fine" at school, then falls apart at home (masking exhaustion)
- ☐ Misreads sarcasm or tone but is deeply empathetic when they understand

EMOTIONS & ENERGY

- ☐ Emotions go from 0 to 100 with no warning — or stay stuck at 0
- ☐ Talks fast and jumps topics, or goes completely quiet — rarely in between
- ☐ Knows what they should do but physically can't make themselves start
- ☐ Sleep is a battle — can't wind down, can't wake up, rarely feels rested

Sound familiar? The full Steady Days AuDHD Planner Bundle

has 13 pages built for exactly these days steadyrootsshop.etsy.com